

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image recording apparatus having: a recording head of an ink jet system for jetting an ultraviolet curable ink on a recording medium to form an image; and an irradiation device for radiating an ultraviolet ray to the ink placed on the recording medium to cure and fix the ink, wherein the apparatus has a plurality of recording modes with different image recording speeds for changing a maximum amount of ink to be jetted corresponding to the plurality of recording modes.